Mass interception of entire populations is not only a reality, it is a secret new industry spanning 25 countries

It sounds like something out of Hollywood, but as of today, mass interception systems, built by Western intelligence contractors, including for 'political opponents' are a reality. Today WikiLeaks began releasing a database of hundreds of documents from as many as 160 intelligence contractors in the mass surveillance industry. Working with Bugged Planet and Privacy

CARTA ABIERTA A LOS LÍDERES DE LOS GOBIERNOS DEL MUNDO:

Alentamos a los líderes mundiales a apoyar la seguridad de los usuarios, empresas y gobiernos mediante el fortalecimiento de la integridad de las comunicaciones y los sistemas. Para lograrlo, los gobiernos deberían rechazar leyes, políticas y otros mandatos o prácticas, –incluyendo acuerdos secretos con las empresas– que limiten el acceso o socaven el cifrado y otras tecnologías y herramientas de comunicación segura.

Los gobiernos no deberían prohibir ni limitar el acceso de los usuarios a las tecnologías de cifrado; o prohibir el uso de cifrado por grados o tipos;

After Endless Demonization Of Encryption, Police Find Paris Attackers Coordinated Via Unencrypted SMS

In the wake of the tragic events in Paris last week encryption has continued to be a useful bogeyman for those with a voracious appetite for surveillance expansion. Like clockwork, numerous reports were quickly circulated suggesting that the terrorists used incredibly sophisticated encryption techniques, despite no evidence by investigators that this was the case. These reports varied in the amount of hallucination involved, the New York Times even having to pull one such report offline. Other claims the attackers had used encrypted Playstation 4 communications also wound up being bunk.

A close-up photograph of Gene Wilder as Willy Wonka. He is wearing a brown top hat, a purple velvet suit jacket, a white shirt, and a light brown bow tie. He has a mischievous, slightly smug expression, resting his chin on his right hand. The background is out of focus, showing what appears to be a yellow wall and a blue door.
